

Following V50 testing, the Blunt Trauma Torso Rig (BTTR) is a newly developed method to assess behind armour trauma effects as an alternative to measuring the BFS. The BTTR provides a more realistic assessment of injury risk by simulating the response of the human chest and recording dynamic deflection data.

Download PDF